“ I often look at things like this to heal myself. I miss you dad. I wish I knew more about your family and your grandmother and your dad to see where your handsomeness came from. It's been four years and the rest of my life to go without you. I graduate from college here in a few months, you're the only person I want to be there, and you can't. I miss you dad more than anything in my life I miss you
